RODGERS ON TOP IN FOOTBALL SCORING

West Virginia Captain With 147 Finishes Season Far Ahead of Rivals.

WEAVER SETS RECORD

Although Captain Rodgers of West Virginia, in his final game on Thanksgiving Day, added only one point to his total, he finished the football season in the lead in individual scoring. Redgers's total is 147. Captain "Bo" McMillan of Centre College kept close to Rodgers throughout the season, but Rodgers retained the lead. Critics say that Mc-Millan can do everything that Rodgers can and one thing more—kick well— but McMillan is not so much the whole Centre team as Rodgers is the whole

West Virginia outfit.

Weaver, Snoddy, Roberts, Bell and others came in for much of Centre's scoring and McMillan's total did not outdistance theirs enough to give him the leadership over Rodgers. For one thing, Rodgers booted most of West Virginia's goals from touchdown, while McMillan, who can kick better than Rodgers, scored no field goals for Cen-tre. That little item amounted to more than the margin by which Rodgers led

YANKEES GET OUT NEW INJUNCTION

Johnson Is Restrained From Holding League Meeting

> in Chicago. By FREDERICK G. LIEB.

The war is on in earnest! The Yankee Colonels—Ruppert and Huston—have procured a new injunction against Ban Johnson, former czar of the American Lengue, and now intend to restrain Johnson from attempting to hold any meeting in Chicago contrary ors for New York on December 10.

The new injunction was procured from Justice Newburger of the Supreme Court of this State. The injunction calls on Ban Johnson and the St. Louis and Cleveland American League clubs to appear before Justice Newburger at Part I. of the Supreme Court at Special Term at 10:15 to-day to show why the inunction order should not be made per-

The order not only restrains Johnson from holding any annual meeting of the league except the one called by the board of directors, but restrains Johnson from further holding up the world's series money which is due to the Yankee players by reason of the New York mericans finishing in third place. HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALL SPHERES OF SPORT

Copyright, 1919, by the Sun Printing and Publishing Association.

HE most successful season that intercollegiate football ever has known came to a close with the Army-Navy game on the Polo Grounds last Saturday. The championship in the East was left in a more muddled condition than ever before in the history of the game, due to the fact that no team was enough stronger than the others to keep from being beaten. In the past at least one eleven always has had a big enough margin on the field to be able to win all of its games—its slumps, periods of mental reaction, caused it hard rubs against teams that it should have defeated decisively, yet the inferior team was unable to win. The champion would possess enough latent strength to carry it over these periods of unfitness. Quite frequently in former years two teams would possess this rugged power and would not meet. Thus the lack of a clear champion is not a new condition, but it is novel for the East to lack one.

This mental reaction that causes defeats unexpectedly is a combination of relaxed nerves and overconfidence. The possibilities of the modern game, terday. These will shoot off next week wherein unintelligent brawn does not mean certain success, enables light, for the prize. fast teams to prove a source of continual worry to their bulkler brothers. The high scratch gunner was J. O. Sea. A fine example of this is the Yale team, favored with material as good as It was an excellent total, considering any that the Eli university has had in the last decade. Yale failed to win, however, because it was not taught the football that Harvard and Princeton final shoot of the month, all of the knew. It cannot be said that the Yale men were unintelligent as well as regular fixtures came to an end. R. D. beefy-they were unintelligent only in so far as they had not been taught the game properly. This lost the Harvard and Princeton games, while "relaxed nerves" caused defeat in the Boston College contest—the Yale essed no remarkable ability. The new game of football makes it impossible for any team to be at its best in every game, and the almost unlimited possibilities of this game it was postponed until next week. The make it nearly imperative for an eleven to be at its best if it is to go through undefeated. Almost any team, unfeared at the time, can carry punch enough into a contest to enable it to defeat a favored opponent. The mental condition of the players in football games is becoming just as im portant as their physical condition. They must be keyed up to the situation and possessed of a desire to win or they will not come through. In the days of old the mental condition mattered little—all games were cut and dried except the few big ones at the end of the season, and the premier elevens almost uniformly were victorious

In the absence of an Eastern champion about five teams take rank at the head of the list on almost equal terms-more might be added with out much question. When all was said and done, however, Penn State, the East. Down at Charleston, W. Va., on November 8 Centre College. acknowledged champion of the South, defeated West Virginia, which is as good as any team in the East. Centre does not claim the championship of the members of the American League the country, but if it should there is no one who could prove that its claim to board of directors to be held at the Hois not valid. Centre is one of the four unbeaten teams in the United States, but its only Eastern game was the one against West Virginia. West Virginia's season was marred by only two defeats—the one by Centre and one by Pittsburg. West Virginia became a dead issue with some between its 26 to 0 defeat at Pittsburg and its 25 to 0 victory at Princeton. The defeat L of the Mountaineers by Centre was not as unlooked for as one might at first suppose-the football world by that time had come to believe that almost anything was possible. The most notable accomplishment of the Mountaineers was their defeat of Washington and Jefferson by 7 to 0 on Thankegiving Day in the final game of the season. W. and J. had proved its right to rest among the leaders through its 13 to 0 victory over Syracuse.

Penn State Boasted of a Strong Eleven.

Penn State's 20 to 0 victory over Pittsburg in the last game of the eason proved that Bezdek's men are among the best. On that day Penn State was better than it had been at any previous time this season. On October 18, however, it was not anywhere that strength, and Dartmouth defeated the Blue and White by 19 to 13. When Syracuse defeated Colgate Syracuse unquestionably was the best eleven in the East. Colgate's development produced an anti-climax. The Maroon was at ts best in the Princeton game, was nearly that good against Dartmouth and was nowhere in its last two games. Rochester was easy meat, even with the team stale, but Syracuse was another proposition, and the championship was gone in a 13 to 7 defeat. Dartmouth was properly keyed up through at least the Colgate game and was not so bad against Penn, but the crash came in the Brown contest. The eleven, riddled by injuries, became stale and Brown slipped through to a 7 to 6 victory.

Following the five leading teams Washington and Jefferson is prominent. The Presidents were good at times, but twice they were not at their Sunday, but the greeting nevertheless best and Pittsburg and West Virginia defeated them. Pittsburg was not this wash the middle of the pideliters. as good in the line as usual and a brilliant back field was unable to carry army" with formal ceremony he team through. Syracuse and Penn State defeated the Panthers desively and Penn held them to a tie. Harvard was unbeaten, but played was the last to arrive and all the other a losing the against Princeton and deserves no serious consideration for a midshipmen had assembled inside the high place.
